Frankenstein at the National Theatre

One of the most unforgettable theatre ¹_____ I'd ever seen was the drama version of Frankenstein at the National Theatre, with Jonny Lee Miller and Benedict Cumberbatch.

My friend and I queued all night at the ²_____ to get tickets. We were very lucky and managed to get good ³_____, so we could see and hear really well.

There was no ⁴_____; the play started with the deep sound of a gong and a flash of white light. From that moment I was spellbound. For almost two hours, without an ⁵_____, I watched the tragic adventures of Dr Frankenstein's unhappy Creature. When the actors walked off the ⁶_____ at the end, the ⁷_____ stood up and clapped and cheered for at least five minutes. I still have the ⁸_____ on my shelf – I've kept it as a souvenir.
